START TO GATHER YOUR TAX RECORDS NOW

With the filing season beginning January 1, now is the time to gather financial records to help you prepare your 1965 Federal income tax return.

Mr. J. G. Martin, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for Mississippi said today that cancelled checks, receipts, records of contributions, and other data are important. They make filing your return easier.

Complete records are especially helpful to Mississippi taxpayers who intend to itemize their deductions.

TELEPHONES BUSY XMAS

While most business establishments were closed Christmas Day, telephone operators were working feverishly to bring loved ones together.

This Christmas, telephone users on the Mississippi Coast placed 28,034 long distance calls with the operators, while another 23,219 were placed through the Direct Distance Dialing system for a total of 51,253. On Christmas Day, 1964, a total of 42,565 calls were placed. The net increase of 8,688 of this year over last represents almost 23%.

According to D. H. Presley, Bay St. Louis manager for Southern Bell, many of these calls were not completed due to the heavy volume, but he estimated that some 2,000 of these did not get through due to the telephone user failing to dial correctly.

Presley emphasized the importance of dialing correctly. He said, "To dial a number in Mississippi, just dial the numeral (1) and then the distant telephone number. For example: (1)-distant telephone number. To dial a number in another state, dial the numeral (1), the area code and then the distant telephone number. For example: (1) - (area code) - (distant telephone number)." He said, "Area code numbers can be secured for most cities in the U. S. by referring to pages 4-6 in your telephone directory."

He added, "If the distant telephone number is not known, it can be secured (at no charge), by dialing information in the distant city. To get a number in Mississippi dial 1-555-1212. To get the number in other states, dial (1) (area code) 555-1212.

Each member club submitted a full account of activities and programs. At the award assembly, the following section of the Association Re-evaluation report was read, "The committee very high praise for the library of Joseph Academy. From what was observed, careful planning and excellent functioning characterize the entire program. Particularly these areas involving

FARM INCOME EVERY MONTH

Cattle raising and broiler and egg production are now major factors in the state's economy. These basic farm enterprises are now adding many millions of dollars to farm income every month in the year, thus sustaining the clock. The outlook is for continuing gains in these enterprises. Breeding herds and flocks are larger and the quality of animals is better. With the prospect of expanded production and steady to stronger prices, livestock marketings and cash returns to producers should reach a new high in 1966. More and more farmers are mastering the fine art of livestock farming which includes a comprehensive and practical knowledge of breeding, feeding, management, disease prevention and control, feed and pasture production, and marketing. A primary factor which brightens the future of all of these livestock enterprises is the increasing number of the younger generation of Future Farmers and 4-H Club members who are now engaged in farming on their own or in cooperation with their dads.

SOCIAL SECURITY DEDUCTIONS TO BE HIGHER IN 1966

The social security contribution deducted from workers' pay beginning in 1966 will be slightly higher than the contribution rate that had been scheduled to go into effect January 1, W. D. Sewell, social security district manager in Gulfport, announced today.

The social security contribution rate for employees and employers had been scheduled to rise from 8 1/2 percent, in effect 1963 through 1965, to 4 1/2 percent beginning January 1, 1966, Sewell continued. To help finance changes in the law, enacted last summer — including a program of hospital insurance for people 65 and over, a 7 percent increase in cash benefits, and other important improvements in the social security program, the contribution rate has been raised to 4.2 percent for 1966, instead of the previously scheduled 4 1/2 percent. Of the 4.2 percent contribution rate, 0.35 percent (35 cents out of each $100 of taxable wages) goes to finance hospital insurance benefits.

In addition, the amount of annual earnings subject to the tax contribution and creditable toward social security benefits is raised from $4,800 to $6,600.

Sewell gave two examples of how the contribution rate change would affect workers. The worker earning $77 a week, or $4,000 a year, has been paying about $2.80 a week as his social security contribution. Beginning in January he will be paying 44 cents more per week — $2.97 for retirement, survivors, and disability insurance benefits, and 27 cents toward the paid-up hospital insurance he will have when he is 65 and retired.

Someone earning $127 a week, about $6,600 for the year, contributed $4.60 a week in social security contributions up until about the end of September, when his earnings reached the $4,800 maximum subject to the tax contribution. In 1966, this worker will pay $5.33 a week — $4.89 toward cash social security benefits and 44 cents a week toward hospital insurance protection at 65. This amount will be deducted from his pay for all 52 weeks of the year.

Self-employed people will be subject to the same earnings maximum as employees, Sewell noted. Their 1966 contribution rate will be 6.15 percent, including 5.8 percent for social security and 0.35 percent for hospital insurance.

With $6,600 of annual earnings counting toward social security benefits beginning in 1966, it will be possible for workers retiring in future years to receive monthly benefits as high as $168 a month. The current maximum retirement benefits is $135.90 per month, based on average annual earnings of $4,800 a year. Maximum family benefits will rise in future years from the current $309.20 to a maximum of $368 monthly.

The law provides a series of gradual additional increases in the contribution rates until in 1987, when the employer and employee rates will be 5.65 percent, and the self-employed rate will be 7.8 percent.

Under medicare, when the worker is 65, he and his wife will have paid-up hospital insurance to help pay costs of hospital care, Sewell added. Medical insurance is available under the law to people 65 and over to take it for a premium month. The Government will pay the cost of the insurance.

In the years since the original Social Security Act of 1935, benefits have been paid to widows, children, and dependent parents) and to disabled workers and their families.

In addition, benefits have increased several times in pace with rising cost of living. This year's changes in the program will increase maximum retirement benefits to over $168 a month for workers and their families eligible for payment, and the new medicare program will be paid.

NEW ORLEANS, La. — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has exercised a one-year renewal option with the firm of Mason-Rust for continued provision of support services at NASA's Michoud Assembly Facility.

The new $13,121,252 extension of Mason-Rust's basic cost-plus-award-fee contract was awarded by Michoud's parent organization, the Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala. This extension, to become effective January 1, 1966, will continue in force through December 31, 1969.

Since its initial selection by NASA in December, 1961, Mason-Rust has furnished common services to both Government and contractor elements operating at the main Michoud complex in New Orleans and at its Computation Office in nearby Slidell, La.

Michoud is the production site of the first stages of the Saturn IB and Saturn V space vehicles designed for use in NASA's Apollo manned lunar landing program.

Support services under this contract include transportation and Michoud port operations, security and safety, fire protection, photography, medical, food, supply, messenger and mail, communications, custodial, plant maintenance and repair, engineering, reproduction and documentation.

Mason-Rust, now employing 948 persons, is a joint venture of the Rust Engineering Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., and the Mason and Hanger-Silas Mason Company, Lexington, Ky.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — The NASA-Marshall Space Flight Center has awarded a one-year contract to Aero Spacelines, Inc., Santa Barbara, Calif., for flying in, and how much money they spend on them.

The information gleaned from the survey will be available to conservation groups for use in their programs of game and fish management. It will, of course, be of special interest to the state game and fish organizations, having been requested by the International Association of Game and Conservation Commissioners which represents the state agencies.

MAGAZINE ON PRESS

The November-December issue of Mississippi Game and Fish is now coming off the press and going into the mails. The free, sixteen-page magazine did not appear for September-October, giving way to the Commission's State Fair exhibit.

The new issue features a timely color cover, a story on quail hunting with that favorite dog and articles on white bass stocking, Mississippi's nationally famous bird dog, field trials, squirrel hunting, as well as the regular features.

All regular subscribers who do not receive this issue within two weeks should write to us immediately, including their zip codes and their addresses. Because of occasional mechanical problems too complicated to mention, some of our address plates are destroyed and we lose subscriber.

Aero Spacelines' "Super Guppy" is the only aircraft in existence which can fulfill the size and weight requirements for such outsize cargo as the SATURN stages of the Saturn vehicle, the Saturn V and Saturn II launch vehicles, and the Lunar Excursion Module adapter.

The contract for an estimated $13.1 million will run through November 30, 1969, and provide for three one-year renewal options. The agreement also provides for an extension of a previous NASA-Aero Spacelines contract for the use of the firm's smaller "Pregnant Guppy" craft.

An enlarged and improved version of the Pregnant Guppy, the Super Guppy, also a modified Stratocruiser, has some 49,000 cubic feet of cargo space. Aero Spacelines, a subsidiary of Unexcelled Chemical Corp., New York, describes the plane as the world's largest aircraft.

The Super Guppy has an inside diameter of 25 feet and a wingspan of some 156 feet. Cargo is loaded through the craft's hinged nose.

Marshall Center plans to begin a scheduled flight test of the cargo craft December 29. A "dummy" SATURN stage is to be flown at Tulsa, Okla., to obtain flight vibration and environmental data.

NASA expects to use the craft to fly the SATURN stage, built and tested in California, to the Kennedy Space Center for launch. Lunar Excursion Module adapters will also be transported in the craft for the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Texas.

Aero Spacelines' first NASA contract was a two-month one awarded May 28, 1963, for transporting of Saturn I second stages and other large hardware in the "Pregnant Guppy." Three subsequent one-year contracts followed.

YOUNG CELEBRITY TO SERVE AS MD VOLUNTEER ADVISOR

One of Mississippi's young celebrities will serve during the 1966 March of Dimes campaign January 3-31 as volunteer advisor for teen-agers fighting birth defects in a three-state area.

The appointee was international "Maid of Cotton" in 1961 as Miss Linda Lackey, of Forest, Miss., and she is now Mrs. Trenton Shelton, of Memphis.

The appointment of Mrs. Shelton was announced by Dr. Frank A. Rose, president of the University of Alabama, who is 1966 regional March of Dimes chairman for Mississippi, Tennessee and Alabama.

Mrs. Shelton will work with teen leaders in all three states, including Mississippi's co-chairmen of the Teen Age Program TAP — Miss Sherry Cook, of Starkville, and Lamar O'Brien, of Collins.

In accepting the post, Mrs. Shelton commented: "Birth defects are the nation's second greatest destroyer of life. Every year, we lose half a million unborn babies, as well as 60,000 other infants, children and adults from this cause."

"Five of the 87 research and treatment centers supported by the March of Dimes in its fight against birth defects are located in the three states of this region. "One of these centers is located at the University of Mississippi Medical Center in Jackson, and another is at the University of Tennessee College of Medicine at Memphis."

Mrs. Shelton has been active in March of Dimes efforts since she was a student at Forest High School. She was TAP co-chairman for Mississippi in 1958, with Tommy Coleman, son of the then governor J. P. Coleman.

In 1959, she represented Mississippi at a national conference of state TAP Chairmen at the University of Michigan, where she met Dr. Jonas Salk, developer of the Salk vaccine which conquered polio.

Mrs. Shelton subsequently was named state TAP chairman for Mississippi and served in this capacity until June of 1960. She continued to serve in an advisory capacity for the TAP program through the 1961 and 1962 campaigns.

In the Spring of 1962, when it was announced that the National Foundation would sponsor a nationwide fund campaign to build the Salk Institute for Biological Studies at San Diego, Calif., Mrs. Shelton served as Mississippi chairman for that campaign.

Another citizen of Memphis, Dr. C. C. Humphreys, president of Memphis State University, will serve as March of Dimes chairman in January for the 30 westernmost counties of Tennessee, in another appointment announced by Dr. Rose.

Mrs. Shelton is a graduate of the University of Mississippi and she taught school in Jackson for two years.

Where The New Year Is Born

For millions on the eastern seaboard of the United States, this is where it happens. A lighted "ball" falls from the top of a tower—and it's 1966.

But in Chicago and Winnipeg it is still 1965. In Saskatoon and Denver it is 1965. In Frisco and Vancouver it is 1965. So where in this broad continent is the New Year really born?

When it is born at all—it happens in men's own hearts! Otherwise the Old Year goes on. And older years add not their blessings but their dregs... as men grope for shreds of time to complete old patterns... remnants of hope to patch worn-out dreams.

But somewhere a heart speaks to God. In the quiet of a church sanctuary it recounts the past with its failures, its defeats. And boldly it enquires into the future with its hope and promise. That soul commits time and talent and treasure to the purposes of Jesus Christ.

And the Father of All, who is not clock-watcher but soul-watcher, turns the page of that calendar. For one soul at a time the New Year is born!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in the life of a community. It is a source of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither community nor civilization can survive. There are four sacred reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Complete Nerve and Brain Center At NASA MTF

MEMPHIS, Miss. — A nerve center, without which the testing of the National Space Administration's Mississippi Test Facility would be meaningless, has been completed.

As the Data Acquisition Facility, the sensitive system in miles of underground wiring, electronic systems, monitors, and a vast array of computers and computers which keep a constant vigil on rocket stages during "hot" firings.

The pulse-taking center is the 25-square mile property of the Hancock County, Miss., and was constructed in 1964 and is now complete.

The first 200-foot high test stand for space vehicle stages now is complete at MTF.

Located between Picaque and Bay St. Louis in the southern part of the state, is a government contractor-operated facility for acceptance testing of the structure and liquid-fueled rocket stages of the giant Saturn V space exploration vehicle.

Development, manufacture, and launch of booster and upper stages of space exploration vehicles is the responsibility of the MSFC or NASA directed by Dr. Werner Braun.

The Data Acquisition Facility, a concrete building with a basement, is located south of the test stands, the dual position centers, and the two test centers, or "Blockhouses," in Saturn V test complex.

The DAF is connected to the test stand via more than 10 miles of wiring running through concrete tunnels large enough for human passage.

Inside the building is ultra-sonic electronic equipment which permits technicians to make more than 2,000 simultaneous measurements of the performance of the stage and its rocket motors prior, during and after firings.

With the first live firing of a rocket stage — that of a test version of the S-II stage in the new A-2 stand — all concerned are emphasizing final checkouts of the complex equipment in the DAF.

There is no other stand in the world capable of full test and simulated flight checkout of the S-II stage, 81 1/2 feet high and 33 feet in diameter, prior to its launch from Cape Kennedy, Florida as a part of the Saturn V.

And without the DAF — nerve and brain center of the test complex — the testing would be meaningless.

To a large degree, the national space program is paced by the human skills, the wiring, the man-made structures and equipment, and the pioneering enthusiasm of space men involved in the DAF at the Mississippi Test Facility.

horsepower each.

Circuitry in similar tunnels connect the Data Acquisition Facility with the second S-II test stand, both test positions of the S-IC test stand and the two test control centers.

During tests, transducers (pick-ups) on the test stand will measure strain, pressure, temperature, position, fluid flow, vibration and even data. About 300 cables, each containing 50 wires, transmit measurement data from hundreds of points on the stand, stage and engines the 1,800 feet to terminal points in the lower floor of the DAF.

From there the signals are fed into the oscillographs, high-speed tape recorders, digital and analog computers, data conditioning and related equipment in the second floor acquisition room.

Technicians monitor the recording process. Limit checks are made on critical data which would warn of a possible hazard in the test firing — and provided to the test control center so that the test may be immediately terminated if performance is outside pre-determined specifications.

Data acquired and recorded in the DAF is relayed to the Data Handling Center several miles west in the Laboratory and Engineering complex. There it is correlated with other data received via telemetry (radio) direct from the test stand and converted into "quick-look" printouts and plots for NASA evaluation.

Construction cost of the Data Acquisition Facility, for which the C. H. Leavell-Peter Klewit firm of El Paso, Texas was prime contractor, was $1,076,000. Instrumentation is by the Aetron Division of Aerjet General Corporation, Covina, California.

The DAF is operated and maintained by about 65 engineers and technicians of the General Electric Company's Mississippi Test Support Department, GE is the prime contractor to NASA for plant and technical support and technical systems at the test facility.

ENDORSES MENTAL HEALTH PLAN

The State Board of Public Welfare has officially endorsed the Mississippi Plan for Mental Health and Mental Retardation as proposed by the Mississippi Mental Health Planning Council and by the Mississippi Mental Retardation Planning Council after a two-year study of the state's needs in these areas.

The three-member board, composed of H. Talbot Odum, Greenwood, chairman; Shelby S. Shows, Collins; and Colon O. Brooks, Cartersville, took the action at its meeting of November 30.

The board not only endorsed the plan but also authorized the commission of the Department of Public Welfare, Miss. Evelyn Gandy, to serve on the proposed Interagency Commission on Mental Health and Mental Retardation, along with the executive officers of five other state agencies, including the State Board of Health, Board of Trustees of Mental Institutions, State Department of Education, Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning (College Board) and the sixth agency (yet to be designated) which will be responsible for administering funds for mental health and mental retardation facilities construction.

The two planning councils have recommended establishment of at least nine regional complexes offering a comprehensive array of community-based services for the mentally ill and mentally retarded, including a state treatment psychiatric service not to exceed 100 beds, an outpatient mental health clinic, and an evaluation center for the retarded.

The two councils also recommended the establishment of the Interagency Commission on Mental Health and Mental Retardation to implement the plan.

Miss Gandy made this comment today, following action of the State Board of Public Welfare in endorsing the proposal:

"I think this is an excellent plan and it is one which will have far-reaching effects. It is a plan which will be of great help to many people — people who badly need support and assistance from their community. And the number of people needing this kind of help is going to grow with the years. The problem of mental illness and mental retardation is a growing one, and I am most happy to see that some specific programs are being proposed to meet the problem. It will be an honor for me to represent the Department of Public Welfare on the proposed Inter-agency Commission on Mental Health and Mental Retardation."

Miss Gandy pointed out that many representatives of the Department of Public Welfare were among the more than 200 Mississippians who took part in the two-year study conducted by the two planning councils.

INCREASE IN STATE'S SAWTIMBER

Our state's economy benefits by an increasing volume of softwood sawtimber, which increased by 54 per cent during a recent 10-year period. "Sawtimber" is a term for trees of sufficient size and quality to produce. Improved forest supply and modernization of Mississippi's lumber industry have opened the way for greater economic advancement. The industry is concentrating on research, product improvement and sales promotion in efforts to expand markets.

Volume movement of southern pine lumber to other areas has increased considerably in the past five years. Demand has continued strong in Dixie where the majority of output is distributed and used.

LITTER AND WASTE PROBLEMS

A big trouble with so many conveniences and luxuries of our modern society is that they outlive their usefulness to become real problems. For example, empty cans, dried-off bottle caps, crusted plastic bowls, old cars, rusty tin trays, collapsed bed springs — all fine in their proper place but a nuisance once their day is done. Litter prevention and waste disposal problems can be met only by sound planning and handling.
